Unemployed Swiss Solve Living Costs

After Drawing Date Recipient Crosses
Frontier Into Germany

Unemployed workers of Switzerland, of whom, owing to the serious Swiss trade and financial crisis due to the state of anarchy in the exchange market, there are now many thousands, with their numbers increasing daily, have discovered an ingenious way of living luxuriously without it costing them more than their unemployment dais. The unemployment pay in Switzerland is six francs and 50 centimes a day—barely enough for subsistence. It is paid fortnightly and as soon as it is drawn the recipient of it crosses the frontier into Germany, where the daily sum he has received from the Swiss Government is worth 250 marks enough to enable him to settle down in a comfortable German hotel until it is time to get his next instalment, which it is necessary to do in person.

The more adventurous travel as far as Vienna, where the daily Swiss pay takes becomes in the course of a year a princely income of 2,000,000 crowns. Then, even allowing for railroad fares, the Swiss unemployed can visit in expatriation with the wealth of the former Hapsburg capital.

A Mean Trick

Young Men Decided Not to Redress
Their Ticks

Most of the youths of the neighborhood attended the charity bazaar, and one by one drifted to a stall where a tiny kid glared upon a nation. Attached to the cushion was a notice which read:

"The owner of this glove will, on 7:30 this evening, be pleased to give any person who purchases a 10-cent ticket beforehand."

Tickets were purchased by the score, and at 7:30 long lines of young men had assembled outside the booth. Then, punctuated to the moment, old Tom Pown, the local butcher, almost as handsome as a side of bacon, stepped to the front of the booth.

"Now young men," he said, "I have here gloves belonging to me, I bought this morning. I'm ready you. Come out! Don't be afraid. One at a time, now!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

White Girls Jealous of Jap Student

Refusal to Attend Exercises is Confession of Inferiority

Out in Oakland, Cal., a young Japanese girl won such high rank in her studies at the high school as to win the reward or recitation of appointment as class orator. This has so offended the other students that they have "struck"—have refused to attend the exercises at which the alien's superiority in scholarship over all of her fellow competitors is to have public disclosure.

Such action by the white students does not strike distant observers as either wise or noble, says the New York Times. They have for such grievance as is theirs the easy remedy of getting better rank than the Japanese girl does and so keeping all the prizes in the family, as it were. By doing what they did they practically confessed her intellectual inferiority—if rank is the measure of intellect—and their own inferiority, and that must have been, or at least should have been, humiliating. As it is, she seems to have beaten them at their own game, and their response is a bit of the sulks. That is not the way to meet the "yellow peril."

Inside Story of The "Beatty Angel"

Admiral Has Good Reason For Wearing Hat Titled

Two interesting bits about Beatty's hat are set forth in a story just as he said, but the modesty of "our David," as the sailors call him, is evidenced by the fact that while he was protesting it wasn't swank, only a cranial malformation, in other words a bump, which made his head ache it was a hatting out he never lifted off he got that bump.

The telegram reporter, curious about such details, found out how. When a middleman, David Beatty saw a seaman slip from the gang plank as the little destroyer heaved and plunged alongside a stone jetty which was moored.

The man was helpless in the narrow jaws of tossing water which separated ship and stone-work. He faced a terrible death by crushing. Beatty plunged in, facing that same death. He rescued his man, but his head was crushed by the landing ship, and he has never been able to wear a service cap straight again.

He did not say a word about it. The other bit is the reason for his "complete equanimity"—C. H. J. Baker, of Toronto Telegram.

How Salk Got Into the Sea

Expert Says It Comes From Volcanic
Eruptions

Where does the immense quantity of salt dissolved in the sea come from? An expert has just given a new answer to this old question.

It has been noticed that after each eruption the mouth of Mt. Vesuvius is covered with a sparkling coating of salt, and that this is so with all volcanoes in South Africa a volcano throws up 60,000 pounds of acid chloride a day.

So the volcanic eruptions are permanently enriching our atmosphere with acids and chlorides. Rain carries these along and carries them into the canoes. We know that formerly volcanoes were far more numerous and active than now, and it is thought that perhaps the eruptions of very old times determined the original saltiness of the sea. The salinity went on growing in the course of ages.

Now so now, though more slowly, will probably always do so; and this tremendous figure has been calculated—that if a sudden drying up of all the seas were possible, it would give out a quantity of salt sufficient to cover the surface of the globe all over with a regular layer sixty yards thick.

If we ever want for coal, we are not likely to be without for salt.

Machine Gunners Lost In War

Britain's Official Roll Shows Loss
Of 3,500

The official roll of the British Machine Gun Corps and the Tank Corps, published, shows 15,000 fell in the war, the losses being divided as follows:

Machine Gun Corps, Infantry . . . 13,300
Training Reserve Battalions . . . 8
Machine Gun Corps, Cavalry . . . 120
Machine Gun Corps, Motor . . . 367

Machine Gun Corps, Tanks . . . 1,410
The losses of "the Machine Gun Corps" of tanks, machine gunners, and in all theatres and in all periods of the war. The Tanks were confined to the western front, and were relatively dense periods of short duration. Between August 8 and the close of hostilities just under 2,000 tanks were employed, including armoured cars. The casualties of all kinds for this period were 600 officers killed.

Nearly 500 tanks were handed over for salvage, but less than 50 were beyond repair and more than 200 were returned to the brigades before the armistice.

Cultivating Sponges

Only Way of Making Supply Meet the Demand

Although the demand for sponges for industrial and domestic uses is increasing, the supply is rapidly diminishing, and cultivation seems to be the only way of even approximately keeping up the supply.

The sponge has become a necessity. Many efforts have been made to supply satisfactory substitutes, but no one has yet discovered one that is entirely adequate. Loofah and rubber, the most common substitutes, do not possess the proper absorbent and resilient qualities. The United States bureau of fisheries is interested in growing and has begun the cultivation with satisfactory results.

In planting sponges, the small cutting is placed by wire or cord to a stake and placed in the water. In a few weeks the sponge attaches itself firmly to the stake. At maturity, when the sponge has been gathered, the disk can be used again. Among the important points in the American sponge trade are the Galapagos Islands, which form the southeasternmost part of the Bahamas. The sponge banks in that archipelago are about fifty miles in length and ten in breadth.

Great Resources of Alaska

New Governor Plans to Exploit
Country's Natural Wealth

The vigorous new Governor of Alaska, Mr. Dene, has discovered that that northern territory is a body of land entirely surrounded by a red tape.

Governor Dene proposes to cut the tape and promote exploitation of Alaska's great natural wealth. Since the slump of the early gold rush the white population has fallen off. The Governor will encourage colonization for the development of the rich mines and timber lands and the great agricultural resources. The climate of Southern Alaska is not so vastly different from that of New York and New Jersey as it is supposed to be.

porting fifty times its present population. If he can succeed in opening up that great natural storehouse of wealth he will accomplish a valuable constructive work.

Mr. Balfour's Winnipeg Investments
It is not generally known that Mr. J. Balfour has many investments in Canada, including a number of buildings in Winnipeg. In 1901 he sold 100,000 shares of a South-western of 70,000 shares, for $500,000. His father died when he was nine years old and he was brought up by his mother, a lady who was a wealthy woman. "YOUR TEETH"

THE HUMAN JAW

By HBA PROCTOR, M.D.,
D.D.S., M.D., of "Dental Hygiene"

Every bone in the body is fashioned to stand the particular strain that comes to its own zone.

The shape and strength and blood supply of each bone is just right for that bone, just as a well balanced piece of machinery must have every part fitted to do its work and last without too much weight or bulk.

The bones of the jaw have as a protection from the pressure of chewing only a very thin membrane composed of perichondrium and mucosa which we call the gum-peristoma.

The teeth are not in sockets, properly called alveoli, which are simply holes in the bone that fit the roots of the teeth.

There is a membrane that lines the socket and at the same time covers the tooth root. This is a double faced membrane which protects and nourishes both the bony surface and the surface of the tooth root.

The jaw has transmitted to them the pressure that is made upon the teeth in chewing and the only thing that acts as a shock absorber is this one membrane which is the only thing that is in the socket.

As much as two hundred and fifty pounds pressure to the square inch is frequently exerted upon the teeth. Whenever a tooth is loose the work that the other teeth do is increased so that the pressure of chewing is no longer distributed over the whole jaw, but is confined to those spots where the teeth remain.

If it any wonder that the bones of the jaw sometimes become so irritated from over-work and so inflamed from abscessed teeth that considerable portions of the bone itself may be lost?

If the teeth are kept in a state of perfect health, the bones of the jaw will usually remain strong and vigorous as nature intended they should be.

She Thought She Had Heart Trouble, Says This Winnipeg Woman

"I was told no medicine in the world could help me, but Tanhale did what seemed to be impossible, and I am feeling better than I have in many years," said Mrs. Walter J. Crowder, of 414 Rosedale ave., Winnipeg, Man.

"About a year ago my health broke down completely and I had to take to my bed. I had a regular siege of it and only after many weeks was I able even to do so much as sit up. Nothing I took gave me any strength and I just wasted away."

"I barely ate enough to keep alive, and what little I did eat caused great distress from acid stomach. Sometimes I felt like I would smother, and my heart would palpitate so I was afraid I had heart trouble. My husband spared no money in providing me with the best of treatments, but nothing benefited me, and as I said, I was told my case was beyond the reach of any medicine."

"Major Park's statement about what Tanhale did for him convinced me there might be a chance for me, so I gave it a trial. It was simply marvelous the way this medicine brought back my health and overcame all my troubles. I feel like a different woman, and anything without fear of discomfort afterwards and I have gained ten pounds in weight. It is simply wonderful that a medicine could do so much good. My life is no more like what it was than a bright sun-shine day is like a dark, rainy one. I am as well and happy woman and I'm all due to this great medicine."

Desert Cactus is Useful

Many Things Are Made From Different Species of Plant

The huge cactus which grows in abundance on desert soil is being turned to use of almost every kind. The woody part of the trunk supplies material for table-tops, chairs, benches and veneering. The prickly spines are made into toothpicks, needles, and pins for mending leather. The pulp in the stem is cut into strips, and is stewed or fried for human food. Cheese is made from the fruits of some cactus plants, and the red juice is used to color ice creams and jellies.

There are many different kinds of cactus, some growing to a height of sixty feet. Many of the different species bear fruit which is eaten raw or when dried, and some particular part of the plant is often eaten by natives owing to its peculiar power of staying both longer and thirst, and acting as well as a powerful stimulant.

"Those Who Dance Must Pay The Fiddler"

There's a settlement in profit or loss, for nearly every indulgence.

Sometimes the pay day is long deferred, and in that case the settlement may bear compound interest.

Often a payment in ill health is required for the dance had with tea or coffee during early years. Sometimes the collection comes in sleeplessness, sometimes in headache, sometimes in high blood pressure, or in nervous indigestion—sometimes in all these penalties.

Nerves won't always stand the whipping of tea and coffee's drug, caffeine.

If you're being dancing to tea or coffee's fiddling, why keep on till payment time comes? You're beginning to pay, now, why not cancel the contract?

There's an easy and pleasant way to avoid tea and coffee's fiddling. It's a delight with any meal—rich, comforting and satisfying—and it never harms. Keweenaw's healthful can have a breakfast cup of Postum, with no fear for what may happen to sensitive nerves.

Instead of paying penalties for your meal-time drink, let it pay benefits to you, by giving natural health a full chance. Postum is the new arrangement today. Any grocer will sell you, or any good restaurant will serve you Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in Red) made instantly in the milk by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make their drink in a bowl) prepared by boiling for 30 minutes.

Baronet Deprived of Nationality

Sir Edgar Speyer Held Guilty of Giving Aid to King's Enemies

Sir Edgar Speyer has been deprived of his British nationality by a report of a special Statutory Committee, which was appointed recently to inquire into charges that he had been guilty of conduct inconsistent with his oath of allegiance to King George V. and giving aid and comfort to the King's enemies.

The evidence before the committee was taken in camera, but it is understood great stress was laid by the Attorney-General on testimony procured by commission in the United States, showing Sir Edgar's relations with Dr. Karmichael, and other Germans in the United States during the war. This decision automatically deprives Sir Edgar of his British Privy Counsellorship.

He is now a resident in his baronetcy until King George, by order-in-council, annuls it. He has the right to appeal to the Supreme Court on questions of law, if he elects to do so.

Highway of Cotton Wool

Motor Travelling Easy in Arizona and California

Freeze-lined roads for getting motorists through certain sections of California and Arizona. There is such a low market value upon cotton in certain sections that it scarcely pays to haul it to the railroad stations.

Much that is raised, therefore, goes into the making of roads. Ranchmen of the California Imperial Valley, and the Salt River Valley of Arizona—both great cotton producing regions—are doing with cotton just what farmers in other sandy sections do with straw or brush.

Cotton is simply being used for the same purpose as straw or brush, and the same stretches where the sand is packed. Traffic over the road then packs the cotton down into the sand and it forms a firm, smooth, and resilient surface, over which motor vehicles may progress with almost as much ease as over a paved street in a city.

There's A Difference

Someone says there is not much difference between "right" and "left." We submit there is a whole lot. Call a girl a vision and you'll think you're the wisest there is. Call her a sight and she will tell you that she is not. If you're never wrong about it, to walk and see—Own Sound Advertiser.

New German Cars

In Germany one of the latest models of passenger automobiles has the appearance of a submarine. The steering gear is placed in the front, but the engine and all connecting parts are in the rear. The new type, it is said, assure more effective cooling and reduces dust and gas difficulties.

Industrial Survey

Of Alberta Ordered
Will Assist in Creating New Markets
For Province

An industrial survey of the province has been ordered by the Alberta Government. It is to be headed by Howard Stuehrberg, provincial trade commissioner, who has already commenced work on the collection of information and statistics necessary for the purpose. The idea will be to make a thorough investigation into the industrial situation in Alberta, taking into account the number and kind of industries whether or not they are working on full time, and if not why not. The survey will also assist in the widening of markets for Alberta products and creation of new ones, and the information now being secured will be used to that end. It is intended to make the survey cover all branches of industry already established, with likely recommendations for further lines which could profitably be taken up in this province.

Tribute to Memory

Of Sir Arthur Pearson

Thousands Attended Impressive Service in Trinity Church

Hundreds of blind men and thousands of other persons took tribute to the memory of the late Sir Arthur Pearson, for when impressive services were held in Trinity Church, Marlborough, near Sir Danstan's Home, the scene of Sir Arthur's work for blinded ex-soldiers. Blind men from all parts of Great Britain came to London for the services which were conducted by the Rev. Harold Gifford, who was blinded in the war, assisted by a blind organist and chorists.

His funeral passed St. Dunstan's, groups of blinded ex-soldiers stood at attention in honor of the memory of a man who had devoted a large part of his life work to the aid of the blind. Representatives of King George, Queen Mary, and Queen Mother Alexandra, as well as numbers of men prominent in the publishing world in which Sir Arthur had been so successful, were before he himself was officiated, attended. In addition, a special memorial service was held in St. Paul's, attended by former associates of the publisher.

Canadian Reciter Abroad

Miss Frances Nickawa, a Cree Indian, Entertains Londoners

Canada, published in London, has given an extended report of a reception held at the Canadian Club, in Stratford Place, London, by Mrs. and Mrs. F. C. Wade, at which a number of people interested in dramatic and literary work in London had the pleasure of listening to a recital by Miss Nickawa, a Cree Indian, of a few of the poems of Julian Johnson, the gifted Canadian poetess, whose recitals were very popular in London some years ago. "Mr. Wade, the householder for British Columbia," says Canada, "is always most active in introducing the good things of his province to the Motherland, and the well-deserved thanks of his people for the pleasure they received from the recitation by this young Cree Indian girl showed that his efforts are appreciated."

In the rendering of her piece from the writings of another Canadian-Indian, who belonged to the Six Nations but who passed the last portion of her life in British Columbia, Miss Frances Nickawa showed a charming freshness and spontaneity which charmed her listeners. Her recitations were considerable dramatic power and good elocution. With experience, and the greater confidence which it brings, this young Canadian-Indian artist should go far. The introduction so happily effected by the representative of British Columbia will we will sure, lead to a warm welcome in artistic circles in London.

A Coat Dress

In Black Broadcloth

Black has held full sway for so many months that one would think it power must surely begin to wane. But this is by no means the case, as black things continue to come from Paris.

To be sure, at present there are enough high styles to offset this monotony. By way of diversion, the vogue for black is finding new mediums of expression. This particular coat dress is broadcloth instead of Canton crepe, and drapes up at the hips as effectively as the West Indian. The self-covered buckle holds the fulness here, while black silk braid outlines the collar and slightly raised sleeves. A dainty vest in white of crepe complete the effect. The coat dress is sponsored by a number of designers this season and finds ready favor because of its smartness and practicability. It may be worn beneath a long or short coat, and is very good with a short fur coat.

An Oil that is Famous—Though Canada was not the birthplace of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, it is the home of the famous Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far enough to attest to its value. For in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

German Favors Harding's Plan
Former Foreign Minister Says People Against Future Wars

Germany is entirely in sympathy with the Harding administration's action plan, Dr. von Simons, former foreign minister declared in an interview. "The new slogan of the majority of German people is—'It shall not be again,'" von Simons said. "For this reason Germany could not make her force for another war even if she wished. Dr. Simons said he could not conceive any German Government which would not gladly accept America's invitation to discuss the association. As a result I naturally have no objection in the country," he declared. "I consider this as the only means of removing our danger and consequently consider Germany's former attitude at the Hague peace conference as a crime."

THE REDCLIFF REVIEW, THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1922.

SEND YOUR DELEGATES.

Now that dates have been set for the annual meeting of the Medicine Hat U.F.A. District Association and the annual U. F. A. convention, it is hoped that all locals throughout the province, and especially this district, will see to it that they are well represented at these meetings.

This is specially urged at this time when so many matters of vital interest to this district are liable to be up for discussion at these meetings.

In the discussion of these matters it is important that every district should be represented, as each district has its problems and they are liable to be overlooked unless some live wire is there to bring them to the attention of the meetings.

Then again, there is the advantage of receiving a first-hand report from your delegate when he returns, as well of his impression of the manner in which your business is transacted by those in office.

For several reasons, which it is not necessary to enumerate, here, every local which is entitled to a delegate should see that it is represented at these meetings.

A FALSE RUMOR.

A rumor to the effect that U.F.A. members who had not supported the Progressive candidate in the several elections recently held, would not be allowed to continue their membership in their respective locals, is now being circulated, and those effected are much concerned in the rumor.

When the matter was first brought to the attention of The Review, we discredited it entirely, as we were of the opinion that no such idea was in the minds of any who might have the power to make such a ruling. We are convinced that any such movement on the part of any branch of the U.F.A. would simply act as a boomerang and would ultimately do the association as a whole no end of harm.

On the first opportunity which presented itself The Review brought the matter to the attention of some of the leading officials of the district, and we are assured that so far as these officials are concerned such a thing has never been suggested.

While matters of this kind may be dealt with by individual locals, the officials with whom we were discussing the matter are of the opinion that any local which would even introduce such a question would be acting very unwisely.

We are convinced there is no ground for the rumor and trust it will be denied and discouraged on every possible opportunity.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT

Mackenzie King, the new premier of Canada, has selected his cabinet. They have taken the oath of office and by this time have no doubt become accustomed to the governmental harness.

Probably no premier in Canada has been called upon to perform a greater task in forming a cabinet than has Mackenzie King on this occasion. There are many elements which contribute to the difficulties which Mr. King was called upon to face. First there is the unbalanced representation in the present parliament. Some provinces went solid one way and some solid another. This made the practice adhered to in the past of giving each province reasonable representation in the cabinet, doubly difficult, as in some of the provinces no supporters of the government were elected at the polls. To add to the dilemma Mr. King was faced with the problem of finding safe seats in these provinces for any who might be taken into the cabinet.

On the other hand there were other provinces with an almost solid slate of government supporters, and each member with his claims for a portfolio.

On the whole the make up of the cabinet is as representative as circumstances would permit. Like Mr. Meighen's last cabinet, however, there are many in it who are untried and practically unknown.

The attitude of the new government regarding its policy in connection with national railways and government control of all resources will be watched with interest. The sudden turn of events in financial circles in Montreal at the close of the campaign gave cause for suspicion that Mr. King was linking up with what he termed during the campaign as the "big interests," a demon which he condemned on every possible occasion as the controller of the Meighen government. This sudden change was brought about over the railway policy in which Lomer Gouin, Mr. King's chief lieutenant in Quebec, was intensely interested, and on which he took a stand diametrically opposite to other members of the party. The appointment, therefore, of Mr. Kennedy as minister of railways, adds to the uncertainty of the outcome of the situation. Mr. Kennedy accompanied Mr. King on his western trip last winter, and was considered the weakest man in the touring party.

The Winnipeg Tribune sums up the situation very nicely when it says: "By virtue of the composition of the government it will be unable to give the country any marked line of policy in regard to specific questions which vex the mind and affect the future of Canada. It must be opportunist in character and policy, and conciliatory toward the big interests, to which it owes so much."

PROGRESSIVES WELL PLEASED.

Supporters of the Progressive party throughout Canada are well pleased with the manner in which their representatives have handled the situation which sprang up as a result of the recent general election.

Although full particulars regarding the meeting of western members-elect are not yet known in detail, yet the outcome of last week's meeting with Mr. King is such as to give the rank and file confidence both in their leader and the elected members.

While the Progressives may not be considered the official opposition they are sufficiently strong in numbers to cut a healthy figure in the forming of the fiscal policies of this parliament. The outcome of the first session will be watched with interest.

There is a movement on foot for an all-Alberta convention of Liberals to select a leader. It is also suggested that a Dominion convention of Conservatives be called to select a federal leader for that party. This is the only way to select leaders, and the idea should be carried out. Provincial Conservatives tried a few years ago to select a leader in the old-fashioned way. Today there is no provincial Conservative party, because the old-fashioned way made a mess of things.

Now is the time to make new resolutions. Not so much, because it is the beginning of the New Year, but rather because all the old ones are broken.

The latest version is:

"Hark, the Herald angels sing:
William Lyon Mackenzie King."

They say opportunity only knocks once. Some people knock all the time.

Beautifying the Railways

(1) The Station Building at Milton, Ont.
(2) The Fountain in the Station Garden at McAdam, N.E.
(3) The Station and Office at Woodstock, N.B.

At the present time of the year when the snow covers the ground, it is decidedly unpleasant for the station and section gardens along the Canadian Pacific Railway with their profusion of shrubbery and flowers.

It is the policy of the Canadian Pacific Railway to establish permanent gardens, and the C.P.R. Plant Committees gives every possible assistance in carrying on this work, thus every year sees an increase in the number of permanent gardens laid out.

In carrying out this work a great number of trees, shrubs and perennial plants are used annually. These trees such as ash, elm, maple and poplars are supplied and shrubs such as holly, yew, box, and others are supplied. Vines are also supplied for overhanging buildings and fences. For this purpose Virginia creepers, hops and Japanese ivy are considered the best.

The first display of color in spring-time is obtained from the planting of tulip bulbs in the fall. These bulbs are supplied to the railway by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and are planted in the station gardens and in the grounds of the station buildings. The bulbs are planted in the fall, and are ready to bloom in the spring.

GENERAL NEWS

From thirteen two-frame hives, almost 1,000 pounds of first class honey were obtained by John Hubbard, of the Gravel Hill, nears which the bees built up and increased to 17 colonies.

An industrial survey of the province has been ordered by the Alberta government. Work has already commenced on the collection of information and statistics necessary for the purpose. The idea will be to make a thorough investigation into the industrial situation in Alberta taking into account the number and kind of industries, whether or not they are working on full time and if not why.

Heavy shipments of cattle to the United States from Alberta and other Canadian points are still being made, notwithstanding the Portney tariff. Since the tariff came into force last May, 9,999 head of cattle have been sent to American points from the Calgary and Edmonton stock markets. In addition to these, 33,000 head have crossed the line from the Winnipeg market.

With 99,000 bushels of wheat shipped out of government elevators at Vancouver, a record has been established for Vancouver. The government has handled more cars of wheat this season up to date than it handled in the whole 1920-21 season. It actually all the wheat is leaving here by ship.
